

Multiple donor/recipient donation system and business method

ABSTRACT

An automated method for allowing one or more donors to make periodic donations to one or more organizations with a single payment for each period, and to communicate requests for action to said organizations. The method accepts personal information from donors, including information necessary to collect their donations. The method allows donors to select one or more organizations to donate to, and to specify a specific amount to donate to each. The method aggregates donations, and collects from the donor once for the total of their donations on a periodic basis. The method aggregates collected donations on a periodic basis to facilitate payment of collected donations to all organizations to which donors have donated during the period. The method also allows donors to communicate requests for actions to organization that the donors contribute.